Please note the following points:

1. You have the right to keep what you tell me private. Generally, no one will learn our work without your permission. However, there are some situations in which I am required by law to reveal some of the things you tell, even without your permission, and if I do reveal these things I am required by law to tell you I have done so. Here are some of these situations:
 - a. If you threaten to seriously harm another person, I must warn that person and the authorities.
 - b. If you threaten to kill yourself and will not agree to a safety, I must inform other parties to protect your life.
 - c. If a court orders me to testify about you, I must do so.
 - d. If I am testing you or treating you under a court order, I must report my findings to the court.
2. Certain medical conditions can cause psychological conditions. For example, an under active thyroid can cause symptoms of depression. It is strongly recommended that you inform your physician of any symptoms you are having and seek a medical evaluation as well to be certain that you are not also suffering from a medical disorder.
3. You may be charged for the time reserved for appointments not cancelled 24 hours in advance.
